Evolving Capabilities and Advancing Public Safety

Canada's emergency services are adapting to rapidly changing conditions in unprecedented times. As the country moves through the pandemic and beyond, it is essential first responders are supported effectively to continue working at the highest level.

To help counter the unknown, it is important strong, collaborative partnerships are formed both internally and externally, new techniques and technologies are implemented, and workers are given the tools they need to help keep the public safe.

PSN's virtual National Insights - Spring Edition virtual event, delivered by experts in their field, will examine how to navigate changes in process and implement emerging technology. Thought leaders will discuss their approach to agency partnerships and maintaining safety and resilience when responding to incidents. It will highlight case studies and provoke conversation to ensure the wellbeing of first responders is a priority and the country remains protected.
