Redefining the Workforce & Workplace in an Age of Uncertainty

Over nearly 2-years we have participated in the largest remote work experiment in human history. While it has largely been a seamless transition from a productivity and efficiency standpoint – the more intractable challenges of learning & development, onboarding, team building & technological implementation remain ever relevant.

Change management across the public workplace and workforce will define the direction and quality of the public service in the digital age. Providing your employees with the tools and training needed to respond to the challenges of today, and those yet to manifest, will enable your agency to prepare for those challenges.

Public Sector Network's Federal HR Insights virtual event will bring together experts and public sector Leaders as they examine and explore new ways to take their teams to the next level. Join us as we focus on key learnings and actions that will help Leaders from across the Federal Government to maximize the impact of their teams and reframe the government workplace for the 21st century.
