Improving Investigation Outcomes Through Collaboration

A rapidly changing and increasingly digitized world has resulted in an abundance of valuable digital data being seized by law enforcement agencies. The increasing numbers of data sources and the exponential growth in data volumes is predicted to continue, and agencies are being forced to confront the issue through rapid and significant organisational change.

In order to maximize the investigative and intelligence value of digital data, it is imperative that agencies adopt strategies for collaboration across areas of operations. Collaboration is key to efficiently analysing data, solving crimes through teamwork, removing information silos, and sharing the benefits of digital intelligence.

Featuring keynote presentations and panel sessions with leaders in the digital investigation and intelligence space, the ReConnect Event Series will focus on the role collaboration plays in solving crimes and protecting the public. This event will highlight the latest emerging technologies and address the numerous issues policing agencies are currently confronting in this evolving digital landscape.
